Intelligence Mail Misses Target

Post 11/17/75

An impressive envelope addressed to "Sen. Michael J. Mansfield" arrived the other day at the home of Mansfield's Montana colleague, Sen. Lee Metcalf. The address on the envelope was Metcalf's, 453 First st. se.

Puzzled over how the mixup occurred, Metcalf looked on the back of the envelope for the identity of the sender. He read, in embossed letters, "Director of Central Intelligence, Washington, D.C., 20505."

Invoking his own security system, Metcalf says he will personally deliver the unopened communication to Mansfield.
